The Carmel Pine Cone

1965 In Retrospect.. Sunset Dominates

On January 1, 1965, Sunset School became the property of the City of Carmel. It was purchased for the purpose of converting the facility and its two-block site into a cultural and community center. The Carmel Unified School District vacated the property on July 1. But ever since the beginning of this year, the future of what is now known as Sunset Center has been the most discussed matter of 1965.

In April, 1964, voters approved a $575,000 bond issue to purchase Sunset. (The price of the school was $550,000.) The money to retire the bonds by 1989 will be provided by one-half of the hostelry tax funds accruing during the 25-year period. Total cost, payments plus interest, will amount to approximately $900,000.

JANUARY

Sunset School became the property of the city during January, 1965. The same month the Security National Bank opened a branch in Carmel; the 24th Crosby golf tournament took place and the Girl Scouts planted seedling pines on widened and improved Junipero Street above Ocean Avenue.

The planning commission approved the location of the city hall, temporarily, at Sunset as soon after July 1 as possible.

The city council authorized residents of the Mission Tract, the Walker Tract and Mission Fields to initiate annexation proceedings and ask the county's local agences formation committee to approve the annexation.

Over 500 physicians attended concurrent meetings of the Western Association of Physicians, Western Association of Clinical Research and American Federation of Clinical Research in Carmel.

FEBRUARY

On February 4, the Carmel Pine Cone celebrated its 50th brithday with a special edition.

During this month a $4,712,000 Monterey Peninsula College bond issue was approved by voters, the funds so derived to be used for needed construction. Glenn Leidig and William Godwin were appointed to the planning commission.

MARCH

Robert E. Smith resigned from the position of Carmel's fire chief in March and James R. Belvail was made acting chief.

The Sunset Committee ended a year's work by recommending to the city council that a Sunset Commission be appointed to plan the future of the city's cultural and community center, also be responsible for the operation of the facility, with the city council retaining final control.

March winds lofted kites in the 35th Carmel Kite Festival.

The city council authorized a site development plan for a civic center of 39,500 square feet of city-owned land between Junipero and Torres streets below Fourth Avenue and if financially feasible, a new police station should be located on this site. Burde, Shaw & Associates was the firm selected for this work.

The council considered moving the city's corporation yard to Forest Hill Park and the senior citizens' recreation facilities at Forest Hill to unused portions of the Forest Theater site. Property owners in the Forest Hill Park area opposed this proposal and it was abandoned.

APRIL

The Sunset Commission was established by the city council in April. Councilman Gunnar Norberg opposed this action. He wanted the arts commission to act as the city's representatives for the operation and future planning of the cultural-community center. Mr. Norberg also presented to the council a "do it ourselves" plan for development of this facility. The arts commission, too, opposed the establishment of the Sunset Commission. With the establishment of the Sunset Commission, the 50-member Sunset Committee was dissolved.

Named as members of the Sunset Commission were Mrs. W. E. van Loben Sels, Dr. James Gilman, Wallace Doolittle, Peter Dyer, Ted Fehring and Rear Admiral C. W. Fisher. (Mr. Dyer subsequently was elected chairman; Mr. Doolittle resigned.)

Mr. Norberg opposed, in March, a proposal to buy 31,000 square feet of unimproved sand dune property adjacent to the city beach from the estate of Elizabeth McClung White. (This purchase later proved to be beyond the city's purse).

In April, the ordinance prohibiting the drinking of beer on Carmel Beach was tested in court and found to be unconstitutional.

April saw the re-election of Dr. Robert E. Newton and Clayton Neill Jr., to the Carmel Unified School District board of education for four-year terms and the election of Ralph B. Atkinson and Major Sherman Smith to the MPC board for four years.

Arts, Inc. incorporated as a non-profit group to construct a cultural center on the Peninsula in April; Carmel Little League opened its ninth season.

The citizens committees to study science and business education programs in the Carmel school district were critical of current instruction in these subjects in a report to the school board.

Carmel High School celebrated 25 years of existence with an open house in April. The Carmel Planning Commission, in letters to the Monterey County Board of Supervisors and the Monterey County Planning Commission opposed the granting of a special permit to the Humble Oil and Refining Company for a refinery at Moss Landing.

MAY

Civic activity stepped up considerably during May. The planning commission, at the request of the Sunset Commission, revised its report on moving the city hall, temporarily, to Sunset Center as it now did not seem to be a financial expedient and might impede ultimate cultural use development.

Representatives of Peninsula cultural organizations met at the home of Leonard Klene to discuss formation of a co-ordinating arts council to obtain a cultural center on the Peninsula and support Arts, Inc. in its efforts towards this end.

James B. Pruitt was appointed

Arts, Inc. Asked To Define Status Of Sunset Plans

The proposition of Carmel Beautiful for the development of Sunset Center is not sufficiently definite to act on at this time, Sunset commissioners decided last night. They also moved to request that Arts Inc. inform them at their January meeting as to when a definite proposal could be expected from this non-profit group.

Co-chairmen Carvel Baldwin and Wallace Doolittle, representing Carmel Beautiful, spoke in support of Mr. Baldwin's financial feasibility report, for the use of Sunset Center, stressing the necessity of getting the facility in good shape immediately, regardless of what the final decision may be as to its control.

In inviting Mr. Baldwin to submit a more detailed and specific proposal, commissioners acted upon the recommendations contained in a report by finance committee member Dr. James Gilman.

With respect to the Baldwin report's suggestions to move all city administration offices to Sunset Center and finance construction of the proposed Junipero Street civic center through the sale of the city hall, police station and corporation yard, the commission ruled that these were matters of policy and decision exclusively in the domain of the city council. Neither, it was agreed, was it appropriate for the commission to consider use of hostelry tax non-reserve fund monies for improving Sunset Center.

Speaking in behalf of Arts, Inc., Mrs. Eleanor Melvin announced that the California Arts Commission has agreed to make a feasibility study of a cultural center in the Peninsula area, beginning in January. Because such a study might take a long time and a site other than Sunset still be recommended Sunset commissioners passed their resolution concerning action by the cultural arts organization, noting, at the same time, that it was not their intent to "close the door" to support from any non-profit group.

A fire, safety and panic survey of the Sunset property was received from Fire Chief Robert Baker. The lengthy and somewhat encouraging report contained his recommendations of items to be taken care of immediately, and in the near future. Many of the items, Sunset Commission Secretary Hugh Bayless disclosed, have already been rectified.

Reports from Commissioners Frank Falge and James Pruitt indicated that Sunset Center is in increasingly better shape. Adequate lighting, including a new portable switchboard and repair of the old one, can be provided for approximately $2,000, well below the budgeted figure. The leaks have been repaired and even the gym is now dry.

An 18 by 31 foot section of the stage floor is to be replaced by new oak flooring which will be sanded at the edges so that there will be no perceptible difference between the old and new sections. Mr. Pruitt's estimate for this was $632. However, the commission resolved to ask the city council to transfer funds from the capital account to the maintenance and repair account and to authorize the expenditure of $1,500 for stage floor repair if Mr. Pruitt and Mr. Falge determine that a larger section should be replaced.

Editor's Column

On Saturday we greet a new year . . . 1966.

As 1965 fades away, this country finds itself with 835,000 Americans stationed overseas. Of them, 180,000 are involved in the fighting in Vietnam. This number is divided into 111,000 soldiers, 41,500 Marines, 19,500 airmen, 8,200 sailors and 250 Coast Guardsmen.

The rest of the American military personnel overseas is standing guard at potential trouble spots around the world.

This is not a happy prospect.

May the new year bring some modicum of peace to the world.

May it also bring a desirable degree of peace and understanding to this community which in the past year has been noticeably divided.

New York Times Tells About Our Oil Refinery Fight

The Six Cities Fund's campaign to gain national notice for the organization's battle to prevent the building of a Humble Oil and Refining Company refinery at Moss Landing was given excellent aid in the December 19 edition of the New York Times.

An article by Lawrence Davies, who had been on the Peninsula, gave a complete history of the refinery battle first conducted by Citizens for Clean Air, also local conservationists including Ansel Adams, Gus Baumann, Earl Moser, Anne Bosworth, Charles B. Kramer and the Sierra Club.

Supervisor Thomson J. Hudson's efforts to halt the refinery are also related. The legal action instituted by William B. Burleigh, Carmel city attorney who represents the Six Cities Fund, also opposition of Salinas Valley agriculturists, marine biologists and air pollution experts, are also covered.

Mr. Davies' account of the refinery battle from its beginning until the superior court hearing in November, on which a decision by Judge Harris of San Luis Obispo is pending, is most comprehensive and will inform readers of this particular Sunday issue of the New York Times just what foes of the refinery are fighting, in detail.

CROSBY TOURNAMENT

The 25th Bing Crosby National Pro-Amateur Golf Tournament will be held January 20-23 over Pebble Beach, Cypress Point and Monterey Peninsula Country Club golf courses. The annual event is expected to attract 26,000 persons this year during the three days of play.

to be the seventh Sunset commissioner and the Monterey Peninsula chapter of the American Federation of Arts asked to be allowed to conduct workshops at Sunset. The Sunset Commission approved this request, also asked the city council to reconsider its decision about moving the city hall to the cultural and community center site. Arts, Inc. outlined this organization's plans to the Sunset Commission.

John Morse told the council he wished to resign from the position of city attorney on August 1. William B. Burleigh was selected by the council from five applicants to replace Mr. Morse.

The Carmel Girl Scout House was razed. It had been a hazard since it burned in 1963. Curriculum study committees advised the school board that there should be more correlation between art and music programs, the physical education program was inadequate and social studies teachers did a good job under deplorable conditions. The mathematics curriculum in the Carmel school district was praised.

Dr. Ferris G. Burleson resigned as the school district's physician and reported to trustees that food vending machines at the high school and junior high were a health hazard.

In May, the city council sent a letter to the county planning commission opposing the granting of a permit for the Humble Oil refinery at Moss Landing. Jack Patterson bought the White dune property for $231,500. The first 1965 free Sunday afternoon concert at the Forest Theater, sponsored by the arts commission, was given by the 36-player Monterey County Symphony Chamber Orchestra under the direction of John Gosling.

The city council decided to seek an independent insurance consultant to evaluate insurance bids and policies.

JUNE

June was a busy month in Carmel. The city council was shocked at the expenses of maintaining a cultural center, also decided not to move the city hall for one year. A site plan for the proposed civic center on Junipero was presented to the council. Councilman Norberg blasted the planning and Sunset commissions for advising that the city hall not be located at Sunset. The council first held any decision on the city hall pending finding out if the city could obtain a new police station without selling the city hall property. Later this month, the civic center site plan was accepted by the council and sent to the planning commission for study and recommendations. The payment of $4,303 was authorized to be paid to Burde, Shaw & Associates for the plan. Estimated cost of a new police station on the site was $106,500; a new public works facility in the same location $127,600.

Other council action, in June, was to authorize the Sunset Commission to negotiate with non-profit groups for the development of the cultural and community center.

Mayor Herbert Blanks read to the council a "white paper" stating that development of Sunset by a non-profit group, at no expense to taxpayers, was imperative for the future economic security of Carmel.

The council authorized elimination of pass-throughs in the center planting strip on Ocean Avenue on the advice of the safety engineer of the city's insurance carrier. (Later in the year, this decision was reversed. Only two were removed and the benches eliminated from the rest).

Planning Commission Chairman Dorothy von Meier was granted six months leave of absence for a round the world trip. This commission recommended controls on auction sales to the council.

Pon Chung was made an honorary fire chief of the Carmel Volunteer Fire Department. The Monterey County Symphony held a fund raising gala which included the showing of the Taylor-Burton picture, "The Sandpiper," filmed locally.

Mrs. Mariquita Brey was honored in June by students and faculty when she retired after teaching English at Carmel High School for 22 years. Carmel High School held its 24th graduation ceremony.

The school lunch hassle continued with vending machines still under fire. The reading curriculum committee gave minority and majority reports to the school board with many recommendations for improving instruction in this subject. The Carmel Adult School held an arts and crafts exhibit at Sunset.

JULY

In July, the Carmel Unified School District turned over Sunset School to the city. The district had paid $12,000 rent for the previous six-month period.

This month, the Carmel Volunteer Fire Department celebrated 50 years of existence with a three-day celebration for the townspeople. Events included an open house at the fire house, a street dance, a dinner dance, hosecart races, equipment displays and a parade up and down Ocean Avenue.

In July, too, the 28th annual Carmel Bach Festival was held for ten days at Sunset Center with one concert at Carmel Mission Basilica. Audiences were composed of persons from all over California and other parts of the country as well as Peninsula residents.

During July, by a 5-4 vote, the Monterey County Planning Commission denied the Humble Oil and Refining Company a permit for an oil refinery at Moss Landing.

The City of Palma in Spain sent a "baston de mando" (staff of authority) to Mayor Herbert Blanks as a gesture of friendship between the Island of Mallorca and Carmel, also in recognition of the work of Father Junipero Serra who was born in Petra, Carmel's sister city on Mallorca, and is buried at Carmel Mission. The presentation was made at a special council meeting by Sr. Antonio Vidal-Gabas, Spanish consul general in San Francisco. He and Senora Gabas-Vidal were guests of the city while here and entertained at a reception at the home of Councilman Eben Whittlesey.

The city council authorized building plans for Phase I of the Junipero civic center including a new police station and public works facility. Estimated cost of the project, to be finished in December, 1966, was $242,000. This sum was to be provided by uncommitted hostelry tax funds and, possibly, sale of the present police station appraised at $90,000.

July saw the city council approve a new salary plan based on responsibility and ability of city employees. It provided a three percent increase in wages, but $37,495 remaining in the 1964-65 general fund financed the higher pay for the coming fiscal year. The plan added the title of city administrator to the city clerk's position; the city auditor became the city finance officer. The new designation of City Clerk Hugh Bayless eliminated his positions as comptroller and secretary to boards and commissions and reduced his $954 monthly salary by one dollar. The new plan affected 45 employees but not the city attorney, the city engineer, city treasurer and fire marshal. Their salaries remained the same. The plan also brought Carmel's employees to the pay level of other municipal employees on the Peninsula.

The council, also in July, opposed the provision of structural fire protection by the county to unincorporated development adjacent to Carmel as a "gift of public funds."

Arts, Inc. outlined to the Sunset Commission a $5½ million proposal which showed facilities for parking 600 cars (paid parking), a 1,200-seat theatre, a 1,500-seat concert hall and an art museum. All this at no cost to taxpayers.

Carmel Unified School District trustees decided to continue to use food vending machines at the high school and intermediate school.

Dr. Robert E. Newton was re-elected president of the board of education of the Carmel Unified School District and James M. R. Glaser was chosen president of the Monterey County Symphony Association.

AUGUST

August opened with the city council raising property taxes 22 cents to a tax rate of $1.28 per $100 valuation. At the same time, trustees of the Carmel Unified School District reduced the education tax by four cents.

The county's local agencies formation committee approved annexation of Mission Fields, also the Walker and Mission tracts, to Carmel.

The Klenke Committee started a campaign to keep Sunset Center "as is" rather than have any development such as proposed by Arts, Inc. which proposed demolishing Sunset auditorium.

The Sunset Commission approved negotiating a lease with Arts, Inc. This was $1 a year for 50 years for the Sunset property. A condition of the lease was that a feasibility study be conducted by Arts, Inc. (At the end of the year this lease had not been signed.)

During the month, the Sunset Commission expressed dissatisfaction with some of the provisions in the Arts, Inc. plans. Members decided to study the site and propose development themselves. They also sought to remedy fire and panic hazards at Sunset, were lukewarm to convention use of the facility.

The county supervisors set a September hearing on the Humble Oil permit and agriculturists in the Salinas Valley set out to defeat the refinery. Citizens for Clean Air carried on vigorous opposition, too.

"The Magic Fishbone" was presented at the Forest Theater by 35 children as a project of the school district's summer recreation program.

SEPTEMBER

With school opening, the Carmel district went on a 4-4-4 program. Middle School (former junior high) became a new concept in local education for grades 5 through 8 with ungraded classes and team teaching. Richard Wilsdon was made chairman of a committee to study the financial needs of the district.

The Canteen Company, a national food vending machine firm, submitted the lowest bid for providing the machines to sell hot food and sandwiches, prepared by district employees, at Carmel High and Middle School. Cafeterias at both schools had been refurbished before school opened.

In September, the Monterey County Board of Supervisors, by a 3-2 vote, approved the Humble Oil refinery at Moss Landing. A new group, the Six Cities Fund, obtained 12,572 signatures on a petition asking for a referendum on this decision. The supervisors refused to accept the petition and a nationwide fight was undertaken by the fund.

The Klenke Committee presented a petition with 526 signatures of persons within the city, 136 outsiders, asking the council to suspend consideration of all proposed plans for Sunset Center. Carvel Baldwin made the presentation.

Sunset commissioners decided that two auditoriums, as proposed by Arts, Inc. were unnecessary. One auditorium of 1,200-1,500 seating capacity was desirable. A paid parking pilot project on the Sunset north playfield was approved by a joint committee of councilmen, planning and Sunset commissioners.

Arts, Inc. presented its cultural center proposal to the California Arts Commission meeting in Monterey. Later in the month, this commission offered aid to the Sunset Commission in the form of a consultant on a feasibility study. Sunset commissioners somewhat favored this offer, "if free," but in the meantime determined to remedy building deficiencies and deterioration of the Sunset facility and to operate it "as is."

The whole Peninsula was involved in a controversy in September, over whether or not this area should have public-owned water service. Spearheaded by the Monterey Peninsula Taxpayers Association, opposition was successful and the Monterey Peninsula Municipal Water District $17.5 million bond issue was defeated by a 10,766 to 3,050 vote.

The city council selected a new fire chief, Bob Baker, head of Borrego Springs Fire District in San Diego County, from numerous applicants and after rigorous testing.

OCTOBER

Following study with members of the planning commission, the city council, at its October meeting, approved 30-foot street light standards with overhanging arms for Dolores street where underground wiring is being installed. The street illumination approved for the block between Ocean and Seventh was luminescent 6,000 candlepower lights.

The Six Cities Fund, through its attorney, William Burleigh, obtained a writ of mandate in superior court to require that county supervisors state why they had not accepted the referendum petition.

The pilot parking program for the north playfield at Sunset was approved by the council and Mayor Blanks informed citizens that 20 cents of their tax money this year would go to operate the cultural and community center.

The Phase I scale model of the civic center on Junipero was given to planners to study and a glass case was purchased so that this model might be displayed in the city hall for all citizens to see.

The council asked other tenants at Sunset Center to state opinions on free use of the former school kitchen and cafeteria by the AFA. This action came after an earlier request from the Sunset Commission that the council reconsider charging the AFA rent.

The 1965 Great Sand Castle contest was held in October on the hottest day of the year. Hundreds of people thronged to the beach in the 90-degree heat to build castles or watch.

Fire prevention week was celebrated by the fire department with its annual water fight on Ocean Avenue the evening the new fire chief arrived to take over his duties.

Clyde Klaumann celebrated 15 years as Carmel's police chief in October. The second revival of La Fiesta de San Carlos de Borromeo attracted several thousand persons to the event at Carmel Mission Basilica.

The low, $140,680 bid for the new Carmel Unified School District central offices facility on Middle School campus was awarded to Hallett Construction Company. Medill Bair, superintendent of the Carmel school district was appointed to the Committee of Seven, a group of educators selected to plan programs to meet the educational needs of the State of California. Mrs. Ruth Sarett announced she was going to retire after running Carmel Foundation Town House, the senior citizens center, for 13 years.

Mrs. Eleanor Melvin, on behalf of the committee to form a Peninsula arts council, told the Sunset commission that four out of seven organizations involved wanted a 1,200-seat auditorium at Sunset, the eighth wanted 1,500 seats, also the AFA desired museum space and other organizations would like office and storage space.

Mrs. Carl E. Welchner, president of the Carmel Music Society, complained to the Sunset Commission about the dilapidated state of the auditorium stage and lighting.

The arts commission asked the Sunset Commission to approve a young people's art museum at the center. This was done.

William L. Hudson started preliminary development on Carmel Center across Highway One from Rio Road. (This will be a hotel and professional offices complex).

NOVEMBER

The court hearing on the writ of mandate against the board of supervisors over their approval of the Humble Oil refinery at Moss Landing took place on November 25 in superior court in Salinas with Judge Richard Harris of San Luis Obispo presiding. Attorney William Burleigh, representing the Six Cities Fund, contended that the supervisors took legislative action, not administrative action, in granting the permit and their action was subject to referendum or recision. Judge Harris at the end of the hearing announced he would deliver a decision at the end of 60 days.

The city council postponed for one month authorizing installation of the new freeway-type lighting standards on Dolores Street at the request of Carvel Baldwin who asked the council to study gas lighting.

The council, also in November, authorized preparation of specifications for a new fire engine to replace the city's 37-year-old Mack pumper. Free use of the Sunset kitchen and cafeteria was granted the AFA.

Princess Margaret of Great Britain and her husband, the Earl of Snowdon, visited Carmel on a sunny November Saturday and were charmed by the beauty of this area. A contract was signed for construction of Carmel's Village Theatre, a 409-seat motion picture facility at Dolores and Seventh. (This is now being built). George Conn was elected president of the Carmel Board of Realtors and the Carmel High School varsity football team lost to Pacific Grove for the first time in 11 years and so relinquished possession of "The Shoe" for one year. Wells Fargo Bank moved to its new building on San Carlos Street.

DECEMBER

The last month of the year started with the city council seeing a gas street light demonstration then turning down this type of lighting for Dolores between Ocean and Seventh. However, further study was undertaken to discover alternatives to the freeway-type light standards previously approved.

The council passed a parking ordinance requiring off-street parking provision for employers and employees of all new business buildings, or payment of an in lieu tax to the city. Buildings with major alterations were also affected. (See ordinance on Page Six of this issue).

The council approved sending specifications for a new fire truck to the American LaFrance Company, cost, fully equipped, $36,188. Immediate action on the truck was imperative because an imminent rise in the cost of brass would increase the price by $1,800. The truck will be financed under a lease-purchase agreement with the Bank of America over a six-year period. Income from the city's time deposits will cover interest costs.

In December, the council approved a grant of $750 to the Carmel Business Association which answers some 3,000 letters of inquiry about Carmel each year. If the city had to assume this task, the cost would equal or exceed the grant.

The council also gave first reading to an ordinance to stringently control auction sales.

Richard Wilsdon, chairman of the citizens committee on finance told the school board that a tax increase of 77 cents would be advisable next year.

Jack M. Feiner was hailed into court in December for cutting a tree on city property without permission.

Danny Holman of Carmel, Monterey Peninsula College quarterback and former Carmel High School athlete, was named to the All-America Junior College Offensive Football Team by the Los Angeles Times and the JC Grid Wire.

Christmas celebrations in Carmel started with the lighting of the municipal tree on December 15. For the next ten days, youth of five Carmel churches arranged carol singing in Devendorf Plaza around the creche they constructed of materials natural to the area.

The Monterey County Symphony and Monterey Peninsula Choral Society's gift to the community was a performance of Bach's Christmas Oratorio at the Mission. Carmel Youth Center members again arranged the tree lighting ceremony and presented their annual community gift, the Christmas Capers, a variety show, at Sunset auditorium.

Leonard Klene was chosen to head the newly-created Arts Co-Ordinating Council of Monterey County in the last month of 1965.

Festivities At Robertses

Twelve sat down for Christmas dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Roberts, including their sons, Dio (here from Los Angeles) and David, and Mr. Roberts' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Roberts. Later in the evening, a huge group of friends gathered for holiday cheer and the christening of an old player piano rebuilt by David. "Have you ever heard honky-tonk Christmas carols?" Dorothea Roberts asks.

A phone call the previous day from their daughter, Nancy, who landed in Sydney, Australia, on December 22, helped to cheer them in her absence. The Australian ship on which she traveled was loaded with young exchange students homeward bound, and Nancy has ended up with invitations to visit all over the country. During the month en route, the ship stopped in Honolulu, where the Kawananakoa family, former local residents, met Nancy and took her all over Oahu; at Fiji; and at New Zealand, she was shown around by a business acquaintance of her mother's.

Greetings From Pop

A large Christmas card from Pop Smith arrived at the Pine Cone last week. Golden cherubs hold up a banner inscribed with "Greetings." Pop asked the Pine Cone to pass on this message to his countless Carmel friends, also wish for their happiness in 1966.

Pop is living with his daughter, Mrs. Ludwig Kaftan. Both she and Pop extend an invitation for friends to visit Pop when they are in Los Angeles. Their address is 4087 Punta Alta Drive. Pop also wants friends to know their letters to him are much appreciated.

Peggy Newton Returned

The airways delivered a fine gift to Dr. and Mrs. Robert Newton in the person of their daughter, Peggy, who arrived from London last week. A Pomona College student, Peggy has been studying at the University of London since February under the Experiment in International Living program. After the holidays with her family, which includes her brother, Gary, she returns to Pomona to continue her work toward a degree in psychology.

European Yule

With a Eurail pass among her visas, Louise LaMothe and two of her schoolmates from Stanford in Italy, at Florence, are traveling through continental Europe during the school vacation. On previous holidays, she has visited Prague and Vienna, finding a striking contrast in the atmosphere of the two cities and their countries, and explored in the vicinity of Florence.

Louise, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Daniel LaMothe of Carmel, was named to the freshmen's dean's list at the close of her first semester. The young student is due to return home in March.

Dana Morgans Were Here

Here to spend Christmas Eve with Mrs. John Skillman were her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Dana Morgan (Jane Skillman), who were married at the Carmel Presbyterian Church in August. The Morgans are residents of San Luis Obispo, where Dana is a student at Cal Poly.

The young couple went on to Palo Alto to observe Christmas with Dana's parents and later, with Mrs. Skillman, traveled to Berkeley for a visit with Mrs. Skillman's mother, Mrs. Forrest Barton.

Pinatas Are Fun

Mrs. Barbara Kendall and her children, Wayne, Todd and Eric, decorated their carport with Christmas lights and bright crepe paper for the pinata party at their home on Sunday. While the older guests enjoyed adult refreshments, children were miraculously quiet, fascinated by a miniature sports-car racing game until time for the gay pinata ceremony. Starting with the youngest, the blindfolded children took turns trying to hit the birthday-cake shaped pinata, which finally yielded its shower of candies, toys, pennies and games.

The Kendalls' guests included Bill Burkett, Dr. and Mrs. George Faul, with Allison and Bob; Barney Laiolo, with Linder, Tony and Chris; the Robert Trastons, with Barbara, Ricky and Kathy; the John McPikes, with Ann, Susan and John; Mrs. Mary Allaman, with Susan, Mark and Rex; the Nick Zanides, with Don, Glynnis, Regan and Dierdre; Mrs. Barbara Tuttle, with Douglas; the Ted Huntingtons, with Tom and Grant. Also Dr. Eric Berne, the Frank Lloyds, Naomi Reddert, the Saul Alinskys and the Jim Van Landinghams.

Wassail At The Barrons

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Barron look forward each year to sampling Gerry's famous punch, his secret recipe, at the Barrons' annual pre-Christmas party. Among those who enjoyed their hospitality this holiday season were Francis Heisler and his wife, Dr. Friedy Heisler, who recently returned from a flying trip around the world, Senator Fred S. Farr, Dr. and Mrs. Fred Duffie, Mr. and Mrs. Webster Street, Mr. and Mrs. John Ruster, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Tourangeau, John Mockler, Mr. and Mrs. Al Hood, Mr. and Mrs. Ansel Adams, Dr. Eric Berne, Mr. and Mrs. James Campbell.

Also Mrs. Helen Arnold, Mrs. Annette Z. Thorne, Mr. and Mrs. James Miller, Dr. and Mrs. Donald Burnett, Dr. and Mrs. Walter Layton, Frank Lloyd, Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim Doner, Mr. and Mrs. George Brehmer, Mr. and Mrs. John Sigourney, Mrs. Valentine Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hofeldt, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Antoncich, Dr. and Mrs. Sorin Issvaran, Mr. and Mrs. Kate Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Cleon Tolman and Warren Rosenau.

1315. PURPOSE. To require off-street parking for vehicles used by owners or employees of businesses in the city's commercial zones so as to leave street parking more available to customers in the commercial zones and less burdened by the parking of owner or employee vehicles in adjacent residential zones.

1315.1 EXCEPTION. The provisions of this article shall not apply to structures to the extent they are devoted to multiple dwelling use.

1315.2 OFF STREET PARKING REQUIRED. Sufficient off-street parking to comply with this Article by A to H occupancies, inclusive, shall be provided for all of the following:

1315.3 BASIS OF FORMULA TO DETERMINE AMOUNT OF OFF-STREET PARKING. It is hereby determined that the interior floor space of a structure reasonably relates to the number of persons working in such structure and that the number of such workers is generally greater on the upper or second story of a structure than on the ground floor.

1315.4 GROUND FLOOR AND SECOND OR UPPER FLOOR DEFINED. A ground floor is defined as that which takes its access from, or approximately from, street level, even though it may have another floor below it, or a similar ground floor above it.

A second or upper floor is defined as one that is directly above a ground floor but which does not have a direct access onto street level, and where access to such floor is through, alongside of or inside of an existing ground floor. With the further provision that any structure where the building is elevated above street level to full story height to provide parking under or within it, or is elevated for the purpose of evading the parking requirements of a second or upper floor, such floor level shall be defined as an upper or second floor.

1315.5 EXCLUSION OF CERTAIN FLOOR AREAS IN COMPUTING AMOUNT OF PARKING. No floor area of a structure, provided for, or regularly devoted to, the parking of vehicles, or for access to such parking areas shall be included in the floor area figures used to compute the minimum required parking for a site.

1315.6 APPLICATION OF FORMULA TO NEW AND ALTERED STRUCTURES. In determining the quantity of off-street parking required, the entire interior floor space of each of the following shall be considered:

a. Any new structure.

b. All of the floor space of an addition to an existing structure.

c. All of any increase in floor space within an existing structure.

d. All of any existing structure where, within any 12-month period, alterations, remodeling, repairs or additions exceed in cost 50% of the value of the structure.

1315.8 LOCATION OF OFF-STREET PARKING—GENERAL. Unless the Board of Adjustments has granted a variance waiving the location of off-street parking on the site, required off-street parking shall be provided on the building site of the structure in all zones affected by this article except zoning district C-1-C. In zoning district C-1-C, the off-street parking will be provided off the building site unless a use permit is obtained from the Board of Adjustments permitting it on site.

Adjustments provided such Board, in addition to such other findings as may be required by law, makes the following findings:

a. That the installation of a driveway over the sidewalk will not constitute a serious hazard to pedestrian use of the sidewalk.

b. That the facility involved will provide sufficient parking to warrant the introduction of such a driveway.

c. That the actual parking facility will be either underground, or so related to the street frontage that it will not create an undesirable visual effect from the street, or within the block.

d. That the potential of the block to develop into inner courts and walkways is not destroyed, or that when such potential does develop, the parking facility will be relocated.

e. That the traffic pattern along the street will not be adversely affected.

f. That the proposed driveway access is not in violation of other ordinances of the city.

1316. STANDARDS FOR PERMITTING OFF STREET PARKING IN LIEU OF ON SITE IN ALL AFFECTED DISTRICTS EXCEPT DISTRICT C-1-C. The location of the required parking on the building site may be waived in all affected districts except District C-1-C upon a variance granted by the Board of Adjustments provided such Board, in addition to such other findings as may be required by law, finds at least one of the following fact situations exists:

a. That the site has 5,000 square feet or less, with less than fifty (50) feet frontage on the street, which site was not part of a larger site in the same ownership on the effective date of this article.

b. That several adjacent property owners, acting cooperatively, propose a development plan which will provide the required parking; in accordance with the standards set up for such parking; on part of the several sites, or within the block involved.

c. That the conditions of existing driveways for service stations, parking lots, etc., have taken an appreciable percentage of curb space from limited time parking along a street between two cross streets.

d. That topography, peculiar conditions of a site, or permanent development already existing on the site make the location of on-site parking impractical.

1317. OFF-SITE OFF-STREET PARKING. In cases where off-site parking is required or permitted to provide parking for the structure, and legally shall be located within six hundred (600) feet from the building structure for the life of the structure. The legal commitment to be of such a nature that it cannot be withdrawn with or without cause for the life of the structure without the consent of the city.

1318. IN LIEU OFF-STREET PARKING. Not less often than annually the City Council shall establish by resolution the value of improved off-street parking facilities in the city on a per parking stall basis. In cases where a payment in lieu of parking is required or permitted but such payment is not obtained by the owner of the structure involved, the off-street parking requirement of structures may be satisfied by such payment in cash to the city in the amount per parking space required as established by such resolution. Such funds so collected by the city shall be deposited in a special fund and used by the city to develop off-street parking available to the general public in or near the business district of the city.

Section 2. EFFECTIVE DATE. This ordinance shall become effective thirty (30) days after its final passage and adoption.

PASSED AND ADOPTED by the City Council of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea this 14th day of December, 1965.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

"The Lord hath prepared his throne in the heavens; and his kingdom ruleth over all." These words from Psalm 103 will be the Golden Text for the Bible Lesson entitled "God" which will be read at Christian Science churches the Sunday.

The Lesson-Sermon consists of Scriptural texts from the King James version of The Bible, and their correlative passages from the denominational textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy.

One definition of God to be read from the textbook (587:5) is as follows: "GOD. The great I AM; the all-knowing, all-seeing, all-acting, all-wise, all-loving, and eternal; Principle; Mind; Soul; Spirit; Life; Truth; Love; all substance; intelligence."

School Board Approves Plans For Library Unit At Carmelo School

Brey Hall was bright last week with the colorful work of Carmel High School art classes displayed on three walls and creating a Christmas atmosphere for the board of education which met December 20 for the last time in 1965.

The future was considered when Walter Burde of the architectural firm of Burde, Shaw & Associates showed plans for a library for Carmelo School. The new unit will be integrated into the master plan for the school site prepared by this firm several years ago.

The library will form the center of the ultimate development of the Carmelo property. Included in the unit will be a principal's office, a nurses's office, and a teachers' room. These facilities are so designed that they can be converted to added library space in the future.

The main room of the library will be 36 by 55 feet with one nine-foot glassed wall opening onto a patio walled off from the rest of the school development. The floor will be carpeted. There will be booklined alcoves, with cork wall covering, for reading and study. The walls of rest of the library will be of wood treatment.

"The atmosphere will be warm and friendly," Mr. Burde predicted and added that the library unit will be architecturally harmonious with existing buildings.

Trustees approved the preliminary plans for the library and authorized the preparation of working drawings. Total cost of master plan improvements planned at Carmelo is estimated at $75,000, of which the library will be the major item.

Also at their meeting last week, the board of education approved a sabbatical leave next year for Mrs. Lucy Foster, River School teacher, and Miss Nellie Ryder, Carmel High School librarian, and a half-year sabbatical for Kenneth Wiese, Middle School teacher.

Two bank accounts were authorized, one for Carmel High School at Crocker-Citizens National Bank, the other for the central administrative office at Wells Fargo Bank. These accounts will contain petty cash. Checks will be written for expenditures.

"There will be no reason to break in because there will be no money there," Superintendent Medill Bair gave as the reason for these accounts.

School hours for grades one and two at River School were changed to provide 30 minutes more learning time.

Mr. Bair told the board he was preparing a report for the state to prevent losing ADA funds for a P.G.&E. outage which resulted in the loss of three days of instruction at Palo Colorado School. The planned outage took place while P.G.&E. distribution lines were being replaced in the coastal area south of Carmel.

Frederick Pomeroy, Tularcitos School teacher, reported on the benefits of his sabbatical spent last year travelling in Europe and studying at the University of Aix in France.

Warren Edwards, Carmel High principal, reported on the vocational education program on the secondary level.

Chairman Dr. Robert E. Newton observed at the end of Mr. Edwards' talk that the board seemed to be facing the same old problem—lack of money, need for more staff and more facilities. The discussion was continued until Dr. Hilton Bialek, district trustee who was absent Tuesday, can consider the high school vocational education problems with the rest of the board. A psychologist, he is making a national study of this field of education.

Mrs. Schoeninger Cuts Cake For Woman's Club 40th Anniversary

On the occasion of the 40th anniversary of the Carmel Woman's Club this month, several of the past presidents were honored at the club's annual Christmas party.

Mrs. Joseph Schoeninger, president during 1929-1930, when the organization was in its infancy, spoke briefly of early club activities, then cut the birthday cake. Other past presidents honored included Mrs. Barbara Murphy, Mrs. Rhea Diveley, Mrs. Alton Walker, Mrs. H. C. Schroeder, Mrs. C. Tod Singleton, Mrs. Fanchon Freeman, Miss Ianthe Densmore and Mrs. Alexander W. Cleary, who has held the top executive post since 1964.

Records dating back to the club's inception in 1925 were on display, giving newer members an opportunity to view them. These records reflect many years of community service in varied projects, some of which were the contribution of funds for the unemployed during the depression years, the donation of the sundial for the Harrison Memorial Library garden, as well as topsoil and plants for that garden, and maintenance of the Rainy Day Cupboard for the indigent. Not only did the earlier members give of their time towards beautification of Carmel areas but they responded to a plea from San Francisco authorities to assist in the landscaping of the area surrounding the Golden Gate Bridge at the time it was completed.

During 1965, the proceeds of a fashion show were given to the Carmel Youth Center and to the Girl Scouts. In November, at their Fair, all monies received from the sale of a doll and her handmade wardrobe were contributed to the Disabled Veterans of the Monterey Peninsula.

Refreshments were served at the Christmas party with the board of directors acting as hostesses. As is customary, before leaving each member donated a Christmas corsage to be given as favors on the trays of patients at Monterey County Hospital.

Bishop Tippett To Preach At Wayfarer

Bishop Donald Harvey Tippett, resident bishop of the San Francisco area of the Methodist church, will preach at the 9:30 and 11 a.m. services at the Church of the Wayfarer on January 9.

The Reverend Lawrence K. Whitfield, pastor of the church for the last 18 months, and who left this month to become chaplain of the Good Samaritan Hospital in San Jose, will return next Sunday to preside at the services. Selection of a new pastor for the church has not yet been made.

A reception honoring Bishop Tippett and the Reverend and Mrs. Whitfield will be held following each January 9 service, members of the fellowship groups of the church serving as hosts and hostesses.

Biship Tippett is the author of "The Vigil of the Cross with Tenebrae" and "The Desires of a Religious Man."

Party Plans

By Phyllis Jeevey

Again, "Party Plans" goes right to the source to obtain information. Josette, the attractive wife of Lieutenant Commander Pitfield, tells us about the holiday season in her native Spain. No strangers to Carmel, this is the Pitfields' second tour of duty at the U.S. Naval Postgraduate School.

Champagne and grapes go hand in hand on New Year's Eve in Spain. It is an old Spanish custom to eat 12 grapes, one with each stroke of the hour, at midnight. Good luck throughout the coming year is in store for those who succeed and champagne flows freely. It is a happy way to welcome the New Year.

On January 6, the Day of the Three Kings (Dia de los Reyes Magos) is celebrated with processions and gifts of sweets. Turron, the almond nougat, is the pride of Spanish "dulces." It is eaten with special joy on this day since naughty children receive coal instead (actually black candy made to resemble coal nuggets!). On the night before Los Tres Reyes are scheduled to arrive, children put out pans of water and baskets of grain for the camels. The next morning on the balconies or patios, the water and grain have disappeared and candy and toys take their place.

The beauty of Josette's favorite Spanish menu is its flexibility. It is suitable for any time of year. We on the Monterey Peninsula prefer Spanish food to almost any other. Josette has simplified her recipes to meet our American "do-it-ahead-sans-servant" status.

SPANISH SUPPER SUPREMO
Jerez (Sherry) Sangria (Punch)
Gazpacho — (Soup)
Paella
Tossed Green Salad
Almond Macaroons — Turrones
Coffee — Licores

SANGRIA
(Red Wine Punch)

Two bottles dry red table wine; 1 sliced orange and 1 sliced lemon, sugar to taste; 1 small bottle club soda.

Pour the wine into large glass pitcher. About 3 hours before serving, add orange and lemon slices. This is not a sweet drink, so taste as you add sugar. At last minute add soda and ice cubes. Serve in punch glasses. This is very refreshing in summer but is relished the year round as is the following cold soup:

GAZPACHO

Five large peeled tomatoes, chopped, 2 tbsps. onion, minced; 1 raw egg; salt, paprika and pepper to taste; 3 tbsps. olive oil; 1 tbsp. wine vinegar; 3 cups water; ice cubes; cucumbers, green peppers, onions, peeled tomatoes, all chopped; croutons.

Put first 8 ingredients into blender and whizz until smooth, or use rotary beater. Chill in refrigerator. At serving, add water to make consistency of a thin puree. Pass a tray of small dishes containing (separately) cucumbers, green peppers, onions and peeled tomatoes, all chopped, and fried bread cubes or croutons. Each dish has its own spoon to sprinkle contents on individual servings of gazpacho. Prepare in advance and keep chilled.

Five chicken breasts split and boned, 5 chicken thighs, 5 small drumsticks — all skinned; 2 lbs. smoked sweet Spanish sausages; olive oil; 1 large onion, chopped; 2 garlic cloves, minced; salt, pepper and paprika; 2 cups raw white rice; 5 cups water; 1 tsp. saffron; 1 pkg., each, frozen green peas and artichoke hearts; 1 lb. cooked shrimp; pimiento strips and sliced green olives.

Slice and saute sausages over low heat in large heavy iron skillet. In the juices and fat (after removing sausages), brown the chicken pieces well, a few at a time. If necessary, add some olive oil. Remove chicken and saute onion and garlic in same pan. Add the chopped tomatoes. Season to taste. Cook slowly to form a puree; add 2 cups short-grained raw white rice to bottom of large metal paella pan or Mexican clay baking dish of similar proportions. Place chicken on rice. Circle with sausages. Sprinkle frozen peas and artichokes over all. Do not cook first. Add prepared tomato sauce and 5 cups boiling water in which saffron has been dissolved. Bake in 400 F. oven, the dish covered with aluminum foil, for 30 minutes. Rice should be tender but not mashed. Decorate top with hot cooked shrimp, strips of pimiento and sliced green olives. Keep piping hot on electric warmer. A "muy sabrosa" (savory) meal-in-one-dish. "Buen provecho!" (Happy dining!)

Paella originated in Valencia, but there are many varieties in Spain. This one Josette has simplified for American tastes. Often mussels and clams in their shells are added on top. In Spain, squid, eels, lobster and crab also are used. On the Spanish Costa Brava this famous dish is often made only of seafood, rice and seasonings. It is then called "paella marina." If it is made of rice and seasonings alone it is known as "arroz viuda" or "widow's rice."

The "pastelerias" (pastry shops) of Spain are so tempting that Spanish housewives seldom, if ever, attempt to make their own pastries. Josette tells us that in her own province of Catalan (Barcelona was her home), they serve "tomato bread," called, in the Catalan language, "pa ame tomatec." Ripe tomatoes are rubbed into the split sides of small hard rolls. These are then sprinkled with olive oil and salt. Added to the center of each is a slice of ham such as prosciutto. Great for a midnight snack with sherry, Valencia orange juice or hot chocolate.

And so, in Spain, the paella fiesta is especially enjoyed on New Year's Eve or Day and on the Day of the Three Kings celebrated on January 6. You also can create a Spanish supper as super as ours. "Ole!"

Dr. Galligan

Requiem mass was celebrated Friday morning in San Carlos Church, Monterey, for Dr. Charles Augustine Galligan Jr., who died December 21 in a local hospital after an extended illness.

A native of New Bedford, Massachusetts, he was 65 years of age at the time of his death. He was a resident of the Peninsula for the past 34 years and most recently made his home in Carmel Valley.

For many years, Dr. Galligan was chief of staff of the Department of Radiology at Community Hospital, the Monterey Hospital and the Monterey County Hospital. An Army veteran of World War I, he was a past president of the Monterey County Medical Society, Monterey Academy of Medicine and Monterey Rotary Club. He belonged also to the American Medical Association, American College of Radiology, Radiological Society of North America, Inter-American Congress of Radiology and the Laeenec Society. Dr. Galligan was a former president of Monterey Post No. 41, American Legion.

He is survived by a brother, Edward C. Galligan of New Bedford, Massachusetts, where burial took place in St. Mary's Cemetery. The Mission Mortuary was in charge of local services.

Friends wishing to honor the memory of Dr. Galligan may do so in the form of contributions to the San Carlos Church building fund.

Who In Carmel, 11 Years Ago Gave A Lonely Soldier The Best Christmas He Ever Remembers?

Dear Editor,

Every Christmas my thoughts linger back to the best Christmas I ever had. I have always had good Christmases but, if I were to pick one out of the many, I would have to pick Christmas of 1954. A Christmas spent in your little town with some people I didn't even know.

To start from the beginning. We had arrived from overseas a few days before Christmas and were sent to Fort Ord for our discharge. We were all down in the dumps because we couldn't get our discharges until after Christmas . . . and to top it all, I was put on K.P. for Christmas Day.

Christmas Eve I was moping around the barracks when one of my buddies came in and said the first sergeant was looking for some boys to spend Christmas with some people and the sergeant had volunteered my buddy to go.

"How lucky can one be?" I told him. But he didn't think he was lucky.

He said, "I'm scared, there has to be a catch to it some place, somehow."

I said, "It beats K.P."

He said, "I will trade you."

I said, "Are you kidding?"

He said, "No, I am not." So we traded places.

Christmas morning three of us boys waited in Headquarters Building with our tongues in our cheeks wondering what we were headed for, but I was thinking anything beats K.P.

Then a young man came in and picked us up. He took us to the beautiful little town of Carmel, down through the main street, turned left and pulled up on the right side of a street. There was a house standing under the autumn-leafed trees that looked like something from a fairy tale.

In fact, the rest of the day was just like a dream. A big, wonderful Christmas dinner and all, and I do mean all, the trimmings. After dinner we chatted around the fireplace, played games, drank coffee, ate candy, had supper and topped it all off by gathering around the old organ and singing Christmas carols.

To this day, I think I was dreaming, but I wasn't. I wrote the name of the family down and promised to keep in touch with them.

The next day, as we were being discharged, they asked for passes and what not to be handed in and, in the excitement, I never noticed that one of the cards I handed in was the one I had the name and address of the Carmel family written on.

I kept thinking I would remember it, but 11 years have gone by and my memory isn't getting any better. I sure would like to locate these fine people and thank them once more for the most wonderful Christmas I ever had.

The hostess was the mother of the young man who picked us up. Her husband was a Navy officer but had passed away. Her son was going to college there, and if my memory serves me correctly, her daughter was working in a bank in San Francisco.

Their invitation to me was like the invitation of Jesus in Luke 14:12, 13, 14. Although we were not maimed, lame or blind, we sure were poor and in no way able to recompense.

I would appreciate it if you would print this letter or help me to locate these people.

Community Church To Hold Service On Twelfth Night

On Twelfth Night, January 5, the congregation of the Community Church of the Monterey Peninsula will hold a service on the site where a church building will be erected. A sermon will be delivered by the Boy Bishop, 12-year-old Parker Johnson, ending his term which began with the Advent season. After the burning of the Christmas greens, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Johnson, parents of the retiring Boy Bishop, will be hosts at a supper in their home on Poncho Way. Reservations may be made by calling 624-6644 or 624-7095.

On Sunday, Holy Communion will be observed, and at the conclusion of the 11 a.m. worship service in River School, the incoming board of governors will be commissioned. Members are Carl J. Bosholm, president; Thomas F. Saake, vice-president; Mrs. J. Warren Douglas, secretary; and Philip Livingston, treasurer. Other members are Mrs. T. O. Wentworth, A. L. Lane, Mrs. John W. Farr, Mrs. Mark G. Brislawn, Floyd O. Carter, Mrs. W. I. Shepard and Howard E. Timbers, all of whom will serve as department directors; and Dr. Ernest K. Gatcombe, member-at-large.

CHILDREN'S HOME SOCIETY STARTS 75TH YEAR

December holds special significance for the Children's Home Society of California as it begins its 75th year of service to California children needing adoptive homes. During this time, more than 26,000 children of all races and religions have been placed in permanent, happy homes.

At this month's luncheon meeting of the Monterey branch council of the society, the current status of the agency's program in this area, served by the Monterey office, was reviewed. According to Mrs. Helen Robinson, area supervisor, requests for adoption services are continuing to increase.

Council Chairman Maurice Mandell pointed out that such growth necessitates increased financial support. He discussed the responsibility of the council in bringing to the community greater awareness of the vital importance of the program. Plans were made to interest organizations in the three-county area in membership subscriptions to the Children's Home Society as a means of supporting services in their own localities.

Elected as a new member of the council was Mrs. Raymond Gutierrez, a civic leader of Salinas.

A CHRISTMAS CARD FROM GRANDMA AND GRANDPA BROWN

Each year the Pine Cone receives a Christmas card from California's Governor Edmund G. Brown and Mrs. Brown with a photograph of their four children, the children's spouses and the Browns' grandchildren. The latter now number eight. Included in them are Charles Jr. and John Casey, children of Barbara and Pat Casey. The latter grew up in Carmel and attended Carmel High School.

Holidays Mean Family Visits

After a ten-day assignment in Los Angeles as interpreter and production coordinator for a German movie firm, Klaus Lehmann was able to stop for a brief pre-Christmas visit with his mother, Mrs. Walter Lehmann, before returning to New York and his position with ABC International network. Since Klaus has not been home for a year, it was fortunate that his younger brother, Hans, could also be here from San Francisco, to see him. Hans, a buyer with Macy's California, also spent Christmas with his mother and will shortly fly to New York to spend two weeks and more visits with Klaus.

Marcia McGinnis, home from Yale University, reports that her studies in the art department there are so engrossing she almost forgets to go to bed many nights. While at Yale, the talented art student has also enjoyed trips to New York City to see some of her former co-workers on Mademoiselle magazine, of which she was a guest editor in 1964.

Don Leidig came up from Southern California for the holiday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Leidig, and is now off to spend New Year's with Miss Dwan Graff's family at Mercer's Island in Washington.

Jennie-Keith Hill, a graduate student and teaching assistant in anthropology at Northwestern University, is here with her family, the Paul K. Hills. The Hills report that former Carmelite Ruth Cooke, now living in San Francisco, spent Christmas with their elder daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Alexander, in Hong Kong, where Mr. Alexander is with the U.S. Foreign Service.

Mary Jane Leutzinger is keeping up with Fresno State College studies during her vacation at the home of her parents, the George Leutzingers. Tom Leutzinger was able to get away from Naval duties in Alameda to join them for Christmas, but Dick Leutzinger is in Frankfurt, Germany, working as a news correspondent.

Wendy Millard has completed her tour with the Peace Corps near Cuenca in the Ecuadorian Andes, where she found her work with the Indian women tremendously interesting and stimulating. She returned to Washington, D.C., two weeks ago, stopped to ski in Aspen en route to Carmel, and arrived in time for Christmas with her father, Malcolm Millard, and Mrs. Millard. In a day or so, Wendy is returning to Washington, possibly to work on the Peace Corps staff in the capital.

Two Carmel High students who enlisted in the U.S. Marine Corps last Fall are here on leave after graduating from boot camp. Ron Koontz had Christmas dinner with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Don Koontz of Carmel Valley, and his sister and brothers, Karen, Chris and Allan. Bill Wilson shared the special day with his brother, Jeff, and his sisters, Nadine and Wendy, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert W. Wilson, also of Carmel Valley. Both new Marines will report back to Camp Pendleton soon for future assignments.

This Christmas was a particularly important one for the family of Priscilla Nesbitt because it is probably the last, in the forseeable future, when both her daughter, Penny, and her son, Brian Casiday, will be home together. Penny plans to go to England next year and Brian, now stationed at Fort Ord, is being transferred to Georgia. The family, including Joe, was delighted to receive a telephone call on Christmas day from Michael Nesbitt, now working in Ludington, Michigan.

On Sunday, Mrs. Nesbitt and her children welcomed their friends to a festive open house to share delicious mulled wine prepared by Brian.

They Made It Back

Home for Christmas, though really still up in the clouds, are seven of the eight young Carmelites who set forth in September for an adventure in travel, proceeding by whim through England, most of Europe and even parts of North Africa.

First to return were Donna Seaver, Pat Crane and Pat Campbell, all ready and willing to go right back. Feeling much the same and brimming over with their experiences are Mike Bein, Roger Diefendorf, Mary Warmoth and Evelyn Jenkins. Still abroad is Scott Forbes, now in Stuttgart, Germany, where he is a guest of family friends, one of whose sons has visited the Forbes in Carmel. (Scott gave up trying to cover Africa).

Pat Lewis and Shelley Jones, who sailed for Europe in August, remain in Berchtesgaden for a slightly homesick Christmas tempered by the fact that they have new jobs which allow them to spend their days skiing.

View Group Met

In a setting of stylized Mexican Christmas trees, pine and holly, members of View met for their December event in historic Casa Serrano, where they were guests of Mrs. Margaret Hanna Lang. Mrs. Lang's slides of Mexico and Miss Betty Renz's films of her travels through South America were screened by Dr. Reuben Johnson.

Assisting the hostess were Mrs. M. L. Stockton, Mrs. Reuben Johnson and Mrs. George B. Turner, who served refreshments using Mrs. Lang's heirloom silver service. Guests included Commander and Mrs. Walter Reuland, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Coyne, Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Dutton, Mrs. Agnes Porter, Mrs. Wallace Getz, Mrs. William Harrah, Mrs. J. B. Phillips, Mrs. Jock Lang, Mrs. H. B. Miller, Miss Lila Adams, Glen Bradley, Walter Reuland and Miss Joan Maloney, a visitor from Chicago..

Cathy James Engaged

On Monday evening, a large group of guests at the Carmel Highlands home of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel James learned of the engagement of their younger daughter, Catherine, to Dr. Michael McWilliams of Davis.

Cathy, who attended schools in Southern California, is a student at the University of California at Santa Barbara. She is the sister of Mrs. Daniel Willard of Davis, and the granddaughter of Mrs. D. L. James and the late Mr. James.

Her fiance is the son of Colonel and Mrs. Edwin McWilliams of Washington, D.C., who made their home here when Colonel McWilliams was stationed at Fort Ord. Mike attended Monterey High School during that time. He earned his B.S. and D.V.M. degrees at the University of California at Davis, where he is currently studying for his doctorate in virology. He has one sister, Mrs. Lynn Johnson.

The couple plan a summer wedding and will make their future home in Davis, where they will continue their studies at the University of California.

CHRISTMAS TREE BURNING ON WEDNESDAY

All Saints' Church sponsors an annual Twelfth Night Christmas tree and greens burning on the Carmel Beach at the foot of Thirteenth street. On January 5, following a brief service of Choral Evensong and Feast of Lights, the church's youth group and others will assemble to burn the greens on the shores of the Pacific.

On Thursday, January 6, the Reverend Peter Farmer, headmaster of the parish's day school, will celebrate the Epiphany Eucharist at 10:30 a.m. in the parish church.

Dr. Tolfree

Funeral services for Dr. Herbert Myron Tolfree (USN Ret.), who died Saturday at his home on Lincoln street after a period of failing health, were held Tuesday in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea, Pacific Grove. Dr. George Hunter Hall of the Carmel Presbyterian Church conducted the services.

A Carmel resident for the past 39 years, Dr. Tolfree was born in Buffalo, New York, October 17, 1873.

He was granted his medical degree from Bellevue Hospital, New York, in 1897, and after service in the Spanish-American War joined the U.S. Navy Medical Corps in 1901. In 1930, he retired with the rank of commander, having served in World War I. He was a member of Alcyone Lodge No. 695, F&AM, North Port, Long Island, for 65 years.

With his wife, Pauline, who died in March of this year, Dr. Tolfree made his home in Oakland from 1915 to 1926, when the couple came to Carmel.

Among numerous cousins who survive him is Miss Helen Heavey of Carmel.

Inurnment will take place in Golden Gate Cemetery, San Bruno. The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Friends wishing to make memorial contributions in honor of Dr. Tolfree may do so to the Therapy and Rehabilitation Room of Carmel Convalescent Hospital, Box 6177, Carmel.

Visitor From Oregon Charmed By Carmel

"How do you do it?", Bob Frazier, associate editor of the daily Eugene Register-Guard, wanted to know on Monday when he visited the Pine Cone.

The Oregon newspaperman and his wife were on their way to Mexico when they decided to see Carmel. Once here, they gave up further travels.

What Bob wanted to know was how the City of Carmel has been preserved from undesirable progress. "I haven't even seen a neon sign in town," he declared.

He deplored the changes which have come to Eugene as the result of progress and asked all about Carmel's city council, planning commission and zoning ordinances, also other municipal bodies.

As he learned about the controls established in Carmel to control undesirable development, Bob jotted down notes. He had in mind an article for his newspaper telling how one city in the United States retains its attractiveness to such an extent that two visitors relinquished a visit in Mexico to enjoy Carmel for a longer time.

Major Arnn

Major John O. Arnn of Mission Fields, adviser to a South Vietnamese official and commander of a team of Special Forces troops, was killed in action Sunday, it was announced by the Defense Department Monday. His death occurred in Viet Nam near the border of Cambodia, where the Army vehicle in which he was riding struck an enemy mine.

With his wife, Mary, he was a resident of the Peninsula since 1959, when he commanded an infantry training company at Fort Ord. During World War II, he served with the 2nd Infantry Division in Europe. Between World War II and the Korean war, Major Arnn attended Texas Tech, then was associated with the Ivory Pine Lumber Company of Dinuba, California, and Bly, Oregon.

Major Arnn reenlisted in the Army at the outbreak of the Korean conflict, was graduated from officer candidate school and attended the Parachute School at Fort Benning, Georgia, where he became an accomplished sky-diver. He was assigned to Korea with the 187th Parachute Infantry Regiment.

His 16-year Army career included two tours of duty in Japan, where he made three widely publicized long distance marches to raise funds for Japanese orphanages. One of these was his hike from Tokyo to Beppu City, a distance of over 800 miles, for the Garden of Light Orphanage. In mid-1964, he entered Special Forces training at Fort Bragg, North Carolina, and was assigned to Viet Nam in February of this year.

Major Arnn was born in Coconino County, Arizona, August 21, 1923.

In addition to his wife he leaves a daughter, Barbara; and a son, James E. Arnn, both of Carmel; and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Arnn of Silver City, New Mexico.

Funeral arrangements are pending.

FOLK AND SQUARE DANCING CLASS

The Carmel Sandpipers Dance Club will sponsor a beginners' class in folk and square dancing at Carmel High School cafeteria, starting on Tuesday at 8 p.m. The class will meet each Tuesday thereafter and is under the instruction of Al Daoud of the Defense Language Institute.

Couples and single men are especialy urged to enroll for recreation with this informal, friendly group. For more information, please phone 375-9415.

MAN SHOT IN APPARENT HOLDUP

Investigation by the Monterey County coroner's office continues today in the death of an apparent burglar of the Mission Ranch early Monday morning. The suspect, James Morehouse of Carmel, was fatally shot by Charles (Skip) Heebner, manager of the Mission Ranch.

Fearing for his life and challenged by a gun, which later proved to be a toy, Mr. Heebner fired on the masked intruder, who was not identified until a fingerprint check.

TOWN HOUSE PROGRAM

"Your Health and Your Heart, Food for Thought" will be the subject of a lecture by Dr. Daniel Gornel of Carmel at the Carmel Foundation Town House on Wednesday at 3 p.m. Specific questions are invited by Dr. Gornel.

Tea will be served at 4 p.m., and anyone interested is welcome.

LOWER FEE FOR SUNSET PARKING

The Sunset Commission, last night, recommended that the all-day parking fee at the north Sunset Center lot be lowered from $15 to $10 per month.

Storm Damage

Carmel "lucked out" in the southeast gale which buffeted the Peninsula yesterday and on Tuesday, Street Superintendent William L. Askew Jr. reports.

In yesterday afternoon's downpour some half dozen homes were flooded to varying degrees because of drainage problems not particularly related to the city system.

A few acacias were blown down on city property, but not one pine.

The police department dealt with six traffic collisions during yesterday's storm with resultant damage to automobiles, but no serious injuries.

The P.G.&E. was busy taking care of outages, none lengthy, in the Carmel area and telephone service was interrupted in some homes.

Heavy rains returned today after a brief early morning lull.

FORTY YEARS WITH BANK OF AMERICA

Harold E. Davis, lending officer at Bank of America's Carmel branch, will celebrate 40 years of service in the bank on January 2.

Mr. Davis joined Bank of America in 1926 at the Pacific Grove branch and has served in various branches in this area, except for a brief period in business development at San Francisco headquarters. He has been at the Carmel branch for the past four years.

He and his wife, Mary Louise, reside in Pacific Grove. They are the parents of two adult daughters.

ANSEL ADAMS APPOINTED TO GOVERNOR'S COMMITTEE

A Carmel Highlands resident, Ansel Adams, has been appointed by Governor Brown to a citizens' advisory committee which will stage the Governor's Conference on California Beauty in Los Angeles at the Ambassador Hotel on January 11 and 12.

Purpose of the conference is to develop a beautification program for the state and to recommend additional legislation to effect this program.

Mr. Adams was appointed because of his past activities in conservation and beautification.

Nathaniel Owings of Big Sur, instrumental in the framing of the county's master plan for the coast area south of Carmel, will be one of the panelists for the conference.

NORBERG OPPOSES IN TWO REPORTS

Councilman Gunnar Norberg, who strongly opposed the decision of the city council earlier this month to order a new $36,000 fire engine without competitive bidding, has prepared two detailed reports which will come before the city council at next Wednesday's meeting.

In one report, Mr. Norberg brings the charge that the council's fire-engine purchase order may have been wholly illegal; and, if so, that it is null and void. In the other report, he demands that specific regulations to compel the city to seek and secure competitive bids before making big purchases be added to the law, so that taxpayers' interests may be protected.

ANNOUNCEMENT!

TO ALL OF OUR FRIENDS, clients, employees and business associates, we wish to extend our sincere thanks for helping us make Carmel Home Furnishings a successful venture. We wish you all, Health, Happiness and Prosperity for the coming year, and many more to follow.

Starting January 1, 1966, Mr. Oliver R. White, who has been with us for quite some time, and his wife, Dorothy, will be the new proprietors of Carmel Home Furnishings. We know that you all join us in wishing them much success.
